Stores

Home

The Home page contains a picture of potential buttons that would greet the user upon opening the app.

Due to only being a picture, the “buttons” have no functionality.

The Account page is fully implemented.

It supports creating new accounts, which are then externally saved into a .json file and can be logged into after closing and reopening the program.

Upon logging in, you are displayed your account's information and have the option to edit it, which is then also saved.

The Stores page displays a list of Field's stores, alongside their contact information and opening hours. It is possible to add new stores through the Admin page. These are also externally saved into a .json file and then loaded.

Events

The Events page displays a list of events that are scheduled to happen at Field's.

These are not saved and new ones cannot be added.

Map

The Map button is purely aesthetic and does not do anything.

This is where the hypothetical page with a store map would be located.

Game

The Game page contains a simple game of guessing the correct randomly-generated number. After the correct number is guessed, the game displays the number of attempts it took.

This score is not saved anywhere.

Admin

The Admin page makes it possible to add new stores to the app. It is possible to log into the page using the Username: IAmAdmin and the Password: 1234

Info

The Info page displays general information about the Field's Shopping Mall, including contact information and opening hours.
